

KS Governor to make local visit

(KAIR)--Kansas Governor Jeff Colyer is coming to the local area.

According to an itinerary released from his office, Colyer Saturday will make five stops at locations across the local region.

His visit will begin Saturday morning in Leavenworth, where he'll visit from 9:00 until 9:35 at Meriwether's Coffee Shop and Cafe, at 702 Cherokee Street.

From there, the recently sworn-in Republican will travel to Atchison, and a stop at Daylight Donuts, at 714 Commercial Street, from 10:15 to 10:45.

Once he departs Atchison, Colyer will travel to Junction City and Manhattan, followed by an afternoon stop at Wamego's Barleycorn's Downtown Deli, at 410 Lincoln Street, from 3:15 to 3:50.

According to Colyer's office, each visit is open to the public. They will allow him to briefly meet with local residents about Kansas issues.

Colyer was sworn in last week as Kansas Governor.

The former Lieutenant Governor stepped into the seat formerly held by his fellow Republican Sam Brownback, who resigned to become U.S. ambassador-at-large for international religious freedom under the Trump administration.
