Weekend altercation leaves corrections officer injured

(KAIR)--An altercation at the Lansing Correctional Facility, between an inmate and a corrections officer, sent the officer to the hospital for treatment of her injuries.

Fox4-TV reports that it happened Saturday afternoon, with the officer, as of Monday, remaining in stable condition.

Additional details pertaining to the origins of the altercation aren't immediately made public, including the names of those involved.

The Kansas Department of Corrections is continuing its investigation.
