Second Harvest becomes Military Friendly

Second Harvest Community Food Bank has enacted a new military-friendly policy that allows all current or previous service members (all branches) and their families to forego the qualification process normally required to receive food assistance from Second Harvest or a Partner Agency.

Second Harvest's new policy states that in order to receive food assistance from Second Harvest or a Partner Agency, service members will only need to provide a current military ID or VA card.

In lieu of these items, a DD-214 will be accepted.

No other proof of information will need to be provided.

Second Harvest serves 19 counties in Northeast Kansas and Northwest Missouri.
