

Prison earned for Basehor sex crimes

(KAIR)--A 19-year-old man is going to prison, sentenced last week in Leavenworth County District Court for child sex-crimes related charges.

Austin Wiles will spend just one-month shy of 23-years behind bars for his crimes. The Basehor resident plead no contest last month to two counts of aggravated indecent liberties with a child in connection with the criminal acts that occurred in 2020.

According to a release from Leavenworth County Attorney Todd Thompson, Wiles must also register as a sex offender for the rest of his life.

The crimes were committed in Basehor on May 28 and June 1, 2020.

The first crime included Wiles engaging in lewd fondling and touching of a 12-year-old girl near Basehor Elementary School. The second crime involved similar actions with another 12-year-old girl.

Both were acquainted with Wiles who was 18 at the time the crimes were committed.
