

Omaha residents facing multiple charges in SE Nebraska

(KLZA)-- Two Omaha residents are facing multiple charges following their arrest by Richardson County Deputies on March 17.

The two were arrested in connection with a Nebraska City Police Department investigation that began on Wednesday, March 16.

Christopher Jestrab is accused of crawling under the dressing room door at Walmart in Nebraska City where two young girls were changing. He is also alleged to have stolen a jacket along with other items.

On Thursday, Jestrab and Jamie Kraus a female from Omaha were arrested in Richardson County on charges of possession of methamphetamine, possession of drug paraphernalia, Possession of a stolen vehicle, possession of stolen property, and being a fugitive from justice.

In addition, Jestrab is charged with being a habitual criminal.

Many Signals Communications