

Four vying to be new Holton USD 336 superintendent

(KNZA)--The Holton USD 336 Board of Education is conducting interviews this week with the four finalists seeking to be the district's new superintendent.

Patrick Graham, current principal at Santa Fe Trail High School, was interviewed Monday.

Dr. Ryan Most, director of virtual learning and special programs at Kansas City USD 500 was interviewed Tuesday.

Holton native Trevor Ashcraft, current superintendent of Onaga USD 322, was interviewed Wednesday.

The name of the fourth candidate, who will be interviewed Friday, will not be released by the district until that morning.

The four finalists were selected from among ten applicants during a special board meeting on January 22.

Public meet-and-greet sessions for each of the candidates are being held on the day of their interview from 3:30 to 4:30 at the Holton Elementary School commons area.

Current Holton Superintendent Bob Davies announced last November that he will retire at the end of the current school year. He has served as superintendent since July of 2017

Many Signals Communications